

Amber Nicole Dilger's Studio Hallmarks

My goal as a teacher is to encourage and help my students develop all of the following characteristics. My greatest hope is that anyone in the community who encounters one of my students performing will be able to say "he/she must study with Amber Nicole" because all five of these qualities shine through the person.

Great Posture.

A performer who utilizes great alignment exudes confidence and commands attention. Their body is an instrument that is free to communicate in a structurally healthy way.

Great Storytelling.

We all strive to develop our best technique possible, but a great performer is above all a great communicator.

Get out in front of people.

You're not connecting and sharing if you're just performing for yourself.

Golden Rule.

Always be supportive of others, even if they are a competitor.

Go and support live music/theatre.

Try to see as much as you can... performances are everywhere, you just need to look.
